Someone is crying

Author's Notes:
A mini tribute to Chris Cornell.

I had just finished last week a fic with him and Stone. I wasn't planning to post it now anyway, but I feel like posting something, so here it is.

Eddie is crying.

He is mad, so mad. He isn't sure he will ever forgive him.

He throws his fist against the wall. It feels good to hurt a little.

Of course, he will forgive him but he will probably never forgive himself for not having been able to prevent it.

Stone is crying.

It seems like the world has collapsed onto itself.

He turns off the lights and closes the curtains. He sits on the floor and screams.

Of course, life will go on but it will never be the same; he'll never feel the same without his friend.
